And before day-light in the morning, the sheriff, with a force of twenty-five discharged rebei soldiers as it is alleged they were, broke into the State House to seize and carry before the Judge, Captain Heydt, who roomed with cocked revolvers, carried off the Sergeant-at arms, whom the Judge fined ten tollars for obeying the orders of the House, and then released him. This action for outrage, corruption and high-handed villainy, has no parallel in history. The eagerness to get at Heydt, and to have him resist, as was that in 1863 these people had to "tolerate" a an excuse for murdering him, grew out of mass convention called by Grant at Vicksburg ; in the fact that he had served as a brave offi- 1864 similar meetings of Sherman's men in Atlancer in the Federal army, and was several ta and Savannah, and in 1865 a grand convention times wounded in battle, fighting traitors. To accomplish all this, and even more, there is on foot a regular conspiracy, and the chief conspirator is Andrew Johnson, as I honestly

Whilst in neither branch of the Tennessee Legislature can a resolution be adopted endorsing Andrew Johnson or his policy, unpolicy TREASON both rank and damnable.

This feast was intended for Nashville, and was only prevented by the prompt action of a talented, fearless and patriotic Congress, admitting Tennessee to her original position in the Federal Union. But loyal men of Nashville, and of all parts of the State, are still environed with danger. The rebel papers of the State all encourage violence, and resistance of law. Ex-Gov. Neil S. Brown, in a recent rebel meeting in Nashville, is reported by the rebel papers to have cautioned the Radicals of Tennessee-meaning the Union men, to beware, and cited the case of Robespierre and associates at the time of the French Revolution. The rebel papers and orators of the country think that I displayed a great want of dignity in sending a private dispatch to the Clerk of the United States Senate, giving Tennessee delegation, including the writer, tional amendment, and giving my respects "to the dead dog of the White House."-The very same persons and papers went almost wild with glee when the President of the United States, addressing a copperhead mob from the steps of the White House, called a well known editor and the Secretary of the Senate a "dead duck." They were never weary of reiterating and ringing the changes on this choice bit of vulgarity, and could see no impropriety or indecency or blackguardism in it. But now that Governor Brownlow retorts, with more truth and quite as much dignity and regard for the courtesies of life, these toadies are Centre Store, Coffin Block, horrified beyond reason.

The President displayed his profound regard for the courtesies of life-not to say lignity in denouncing me to members of the Tennessee Legislature, and others visiting Washington, with curses and bitterness, for fifteen months past! He increased his stock of dignity when he caused to be written various letters to Nashville, to procure the defeat of the Constitutional amendments by reducing the House below a quorum ! He went for dignity when, at his inaugura- LOCKS, HINGES. tion as Vice President, he exhibited himself in the presence of Congressmen, Foreign Ministers, and even LADIES! This man may do to hold up as an example of dignity among | 500 Kegs of Nails, of every size and variethe traitors, and low order of toadies who have him in charge! I do not belong to that school of dignitaries.

I feel called upon to warn the honest, loy al masses against a matured scheme of the Johnson-Copperhead leaders to have the Government pay them for all the negroes they lost by the war. Not more than one in ten of the loyal men, South, ever owned any slaves, or desired to own them, and it would be down-right robbery to tax nine laboring men to pay for the slaves of one gentleman. A direct tax is the only mode by Shoe Brushes, Mason's Blacking, Stove a view of reducing the House below a quo-flict is over, will be easy. A Surveyor-General, with a deputy and land office for each county in the one loval slave owner suffer than that nine The loyal men of Tennessee will allow me to honest laborers, equally loyal, suffer to make

Most of the men now in the Copperhead ranks in the South, are men who expect, when the Southern States are represented in Congress, that they will be compensated for their negroes. Not a few of them think that they will even get slavery restored. Our people can afford to pay a direct tax to liquidate the war debt, through a period of several years, but tax them to pay for FOUR MILLIONS OF SLAVES, owned by a small number of nabobs and original secessionists, and they will not get through with tax-paying in a life time!

To the Union masses, the honest working voters I say in all candor, watch the men who advocate this paying for their lost negroes. If the Government will tax the slave-owners alone to pay for the negroes, I go for it, but I shall never consent to tax men to pay for negroes who never owned any, and never desired to own any. Slave-holders got up the big dance in 1861-they continued the frelic for four years—and they are the very men to pay the The present Legislature of Tennessee has been more bitterly and perseveringly abused than any

General Assembly that ever convened in the State and yet no Legislative body ever did as much for the best interests of the State. Sixteen months ago this body of men assembled in the Capitol, and took charge of what little was left of the State and her records. The State was prostrated, her archieves gone South, her money squandered, and her credit utterly ruined. War was still raging, courts were nowhere held with safety, and justice was administered only within a few fortified posts, protected by bayonets. County governments were broken up and peace officers could do nothing. Our schools and academies were closed, as they had been during the four years of war and anarchy which previously reigned. Our grand system of Railroads was in runs, while the military authorities were running such as were necessary to their success. Guerrillas prowled without restraint over the whole State, and our farmers were liable any night to loose their last horses and their only hope of raising bread. The Legislature, by its judicious legislation, has placed the State upon her feet again, enabled the treasury to meet all demands, and put the Railroads in running order, and enabled them to meet the interest on their loans. The credit of the State is restored, and the State herself is restored to the Union. The courts are everywhere open for the transaction of business. The farming operations of the country are going on finely, and our schools are opening in every county. In a word, it has been the proud privilege of this Legislature to restore this noble old Common wealth to prosperity in business, and to her ancient position in the Federal Union. And the members of the Legislature have done all this in defiance of the abuse of traitors, the slanders of their prostituted papers, and in the very face of a war | HUBS, made upon them by the President, whose patronage and dictation were brought to bear upon them through bad men who had sold out to the Adminis tration, or lacked the manhood to stand up against its denunciations. All honor to the patriotic Legislature of Tennessee, and the brave men in both Houses who have faced the storm of rebel abuse copperhead slanders, and the treason of those in high I cannot close this address without warning the loyal men of the State against the speeches, arguments and appeals of that class of leading mon who. in their worse than Balshazzar revelry, praise Andrew Johnson as the man after their own heart. In Middle and West Tennessee, at the breaking out of the rebellion, their frenzied rage always directed itself, with unerring precision, against the Government and its Union friends. Most of them either belonged to a Vigilance Committee or a rebel Military League, sacrificing better men than them selves for the most part, they were men who sought office under the Confederate Government, spoke and wrote in favor of the rebel cause, denounced Lincoln's violation of the Constitution, and at a later day advocated the election of McClellan and Pendleton !-Most of these men would like to see a second rebellion, as a means of acquiring political notoriety and making money. They are not of that class of men who would enter the ranks and fight for their principles. They are the advocates of a Convention to set aside the present State Government, even if the experiment should cause scenes to be enacted for which civilization will be made to blush. The masand shooting down of East Tennessee Unionists all at length paralleled by the inexcusable slaughter in New Orleans, have no terrors for these Tennesses admirers of Mr. Johnson, though he is becoming startled at the attrocity of his ewn deeds, and the legitimate fruits of his insane policy! In this address I have used great plainness of speech, and for the reasons, first, that I desired and intended to be understood; and next, because this is no time for putting forth an uncertain sound. I have desired to act in harmony with the President —so has the great Union party of the country, the Legislature of the State, and Congress, as I took occasion to write him about the beginning of this year. I hope he may publish that short letter. I have re-solved that the President should not call a Grayback Convention at Philadelphia—a Convention to be composed of office-holding Republicans, of delegates from the party that opposed the war, and of delegates from the rebel Congress and the rebel armies, and out of these materials organize a Johnson-Democratic-Rebel party, and turn me over to it, to be dictated to and controlled by the men who fought four years to destroy the country. This is the pass to which we have come at last, and those who are cases. willing that a faithless President shall transfer them there can be but two parties in this country -a dis loyal and a loyal party. Choose ye between these parties, whose only issue is, whether this State and Nation are to be governed by loyal or disloyal men.

It is proper for me to state that my term of service will expire in October, 1867, and that I shall not be a candidate for re-election to the office I now consequences. In retirement, I will continue to vote and act only with the party that is radical in
